Description

An extremely heavy lidded copper pan dating to c1870-1890. Marked to both pieces for Duval, a celebrated French metalware specialist. Both parts are also marked owners 'PW'. Both lid and pan have very strong wrought iron handles and copper studs. Almost certainly used in a high class hotel or grand residence. The condition is very good overall, with no splits or dents, some surface wear due to age and use and a few black marks to the base. Slight greening to interior. Total weight is an impressive 14kg. This means that this piece must be delivered by courier. Total length of pan approx 73cm. Diameter of lid approx 40cm. Depth of pan approx 11cm.
