Description

Original Regency Mahogany Gun Barrel Library Table. A stunning Regency table. This is a marvellous example of a simply stunning Regency library table believed to be made around C1820. This original table has a solid Mahogany top with beautiful fiddle-back grain and a cross-banded edge. Under the tabletop are 2 full width finely dovetailed secret drawers with matching fiddle grain finishing to a beaded edge which follows around the whole table. This table is symmetrical meaning it appears the same either side making the table ideal for placing in the middle of a roomset. The fantastic table features its lovely original rich Mahogany colour with and its beautiful highly polished french polished finish. This original table stands on twin pedestal turned support columns in the shape of a cannon barrel incorporating a carved relief. The columns support the scroll shaped and carved legs with 2 turned and fretwork rosettas to the end of each leg. These legs finish to its original solid brass castors which are in perfectly working condition. This table is ideal to be used as a sofa table, lamp table, in a hallway or even as a desk. Its really a beautiful collectors piece and ...
