Description

A very attractive ladies writing desk from the late Victorian period. Made from solid mahogany and very much in the Rocco style. Sat on cabriole legs with carved shoulder and apron, slightly bowed to the central drawer and with matching storage slopes to the writing surface. All the cast brass handles are present and original. The writing leather is a new replacement in antique green with a gold tooled edge. To the recessed back there is a mirror and ample space for a laptop. Recently re-polished and above average quality. A perfect piece to use and enjoy.
