Description

An early Victorian mahogany writing table or dressing table, the rectangular back with an upstand over an arrangement of four drawers with, raised on turned and fluted supports terminating in brass and porcelain castors. A very useful piece of furniture which due to its size would be suitable for use as a writing table, side table or dressing table. It's of good quality and in overall good order and colour, with original castors. The back upstand has a repaired crack to the right hand side but otherwise in excellent, clean, condition.
