Description

Nice example of an early Oak Coffe, likely to have originated from France. It has an unusual design with a sliding lid which overhangs the box - making it great for a coffee table. It has been naively carved both sides with a simple X design, meaning there is no real front or back. It has a panelled construction on square legs with a three plank top. It dates from the late 18th / early 19th century and is in good original condition. It is generally clean and tidy inside with its original solid floor. There are some historic signs of worm which have all been treated as a precaution and have not affected the coffer structurally or aesthetically. It is strong and sturdy with no major damages and it has developed a beautiful rich patina. It has been cleaned and polished and is ready for the home.
