Description

For sale is a large oak cricket table. The table is solid oak with a carved edge to the top and carved stretcher to all three sides. The table dates to the start of the 20th century and could even date to the late Victorian period. Larger than normal cricket tables this could be used as a small dining table. In very good solid condition, the top does have a mark but rather than take the original finish off the top we decided to leave this table in as found condition as it has a great original feel to it. It does have later supports to the top as one section to the is slightly raised as shown in pictures but these were added in the first half of the 20th century. Overall a superb table that stand out in any setting. diameter - 89.5cm height - 72cm
