Description

A quality piece of oak! A very nice early 20th century oak bureau bookcase of exceptional quality. This piece has a glazed two door top section and a shelved interior. The base section has a sloped front that opens to an interior of pigeonholes and small central drawer. There are three further drawers beneath the fall front and the cabinet is supported on sturdy bun feet. This is a very well made and stately looking piece of furniture that would be equally suited to a traditional or modern interior, the perfect 'home office'. Dimensions- total height 212cm, working height 72cm, top depth 25cm and bottom depth 43cm
