Description

Coarsely woven in ivory cotton with the depiction of stylized birds brocaded in wool, this salt-bag - 'namakdan' in Persian - has a rustic tribal charm and a wonderful simplicity of design. Woven circa 1900 by Bakhtiari nomads in western Persia, the bag is complete with upsides-down birds on the back, showing that it was made as one complete piece on the loom before being folded in half and sewn-up along the sides. Size: 51cm x 55cm (1' 8" x 1' 10").
