Description

Woven in the Azerbaijan region of North-West Persia, Serapi carpets are among the most sought after of 19th century Persian carpets today. Their archaic designs and daring colour combinations have ancient origins, but offer wonderful decorative options in both traditional and contemporary settings. This piece fits well into the category, but has an additional edge to it. The colours are pale without any dark blue or deep red while the ornamentation is sparingly drawn, ideal for situations where the carpet needs to blend well with a complex decorative scheme. Note the subtle use of pale blue. All this to a highly decorative and interesting carpet. Professionally cleaned and restored, this carpet is ready for immediate use.
