Description

A Lovely Rare Victorian Walnut Sewing Table. A charming table for the sewing enthusiast. We bring to you this outstanding Victorian Octagonal base sewing trumpet table believed to be made around C1880 from Walnut. This table is ideal for the craft type person and will hide all the mess from sewing in an organised manner. Ideal to be placed in any room of any period property and be used as a side or lamp table when not being used for sewing. The top is inlaid with a round Walnut background, floral Boxwood filigree to outer disk with birds-eye Maple and Satinwood to the centre with circular stringing surrounding. The table has its original working lock with original key. When you unlock and lift the stunning top you will uncover a fitted sewing interior with lidded compartments and a centre padded pin cushion which lifts out to reveal a large storage cavity. The interior is predominantly paper lined with a floral design and material lids to the pin cushions. The Octagonal trumpet base stands on a finely turned pillar going to 3 carved and shaped legs, which are all solid and have no breaks or loose joints. The legs do have some signs of historic woodworm which is no...
