Description

For sale is a very large late Georgian housekeepers cupboard. This piece of furniture was bought in the 1950's from a local country house auction and has been in the same clients hands ever since. English made and dates to around 1820. The piece has been made with the highest quality showing in every aspect of its build. This piece has originally been made for a country house and does show that. The cupboard has been made with mixture of solid oak and a rich mahogany. the lower chest has an oak body with beautiful mahogany twisted columns down either side, a decorative mahogany plinth and beautiful rich mahogany veneer. The lower chest hides a secret drawer that is unseen to the natural eye and a perfect space for valuables. The top cupboard is again an oak body with mahogany detailing. The cupboard has internal shelving and has a later but period blue paint to the inside. The chest sits on turned mahogany bulb feet with its original mahogany drawer knobs. The chest comes with 2 keys. the top cupboard key and locks works perfect. The lower chest key is the original but struggles to catch the lock and is temperamental. The chest is in overall excellent condition a...
