Description

After George Willis Price: figured by a river, thought to be the River Wye in Derbyshire, depicting a man and a woman on the riverbank at a bend, with rocks and trees and hills in the background, under a partly clouded sky, in an ornate giltwood frame. English, late 19th century. Condition: overall very good, the colours are good and bright but not overly so, and the frame is in very good condition with one tiny loss by the slip. Board size 9.5" by 12".
