Description

A Chinese famille verte-decorated "Mounted Warriors" charger, Kangxi period. (1662-1722). The interior enamelled with a battle scene depicting soldiers on horseback interspersed with several bannermen, the shaped rim decorated with mythical beasts, flowers, and antiques, the underside with artemisia leaf mark within a double circle. NOTE: for other examples depicting battle scenes, see: Christie's, London, May 20, 2003, Lot 184 and Bonham's, Edinburgh, UK, March 25, 2015, Lot 266 and Freemans, Philadelphia, where the identical, but undamaged dish, Lot 56, April 8, 2021, sold for $5040 (£3828) The Mounted Warriors decoration is rare. The dish, Wucai porcelain, is painted with considerable verve. In the centre a mounted general aims his spear at a fleeing foe. Although the dish is badly damaged the enamel decoration is clear and bright .. well worth proper restoration. Despite the damages this is still a beautiful and rare artwork, around 400 years old. SIZE: 14.5 inches PROVENANCE: Cheshire Private Collection. Southern England Private Collection for the last 34 years.
