Description

For sale, a William IV period Rosewood wheel barometer with six-inch dial by F Amadio of 118 St John Street Road, London. Comprised of a body lavishly adorned with beautifully figured rosewood veneer this rare six-inch dial wheel barometer sports a swan neck pediment with brass urn finial to the centre. The head of the body includes a removable wheat beard hygrometer with silvered dial and convex glass front, below that, the flared neck is provided with a bow-fronted glazed thermometer case with silvered Fahrenheit scale and a red spirit thermometer. The dial is comprised of a small six-inch silvered dial with brass spun bezel and convex glass front. The barometer scale is divided for 28 to 31 inches of barometric pressure with weather indications provided on the inner circumference. The centre of the dial has a simple leaf motif engraving around the spindle and blue steel pointer and brass set hand operated by the dial below. The dial is further engraved to the maker F. Amadio – 118 St John Street Road, London. The base is designed in the familiar 1830's style with angular vertical lines and in-swept hips culminating to a brass spirit level with florally engraved silver...
