Description

A superb solid sterling silver wine funnel, dating from the very end of the reign of George IV. The body of the funnel and the strainer are hallmarked for London 1829. The silversmith is possibly James Beebe. The outer tang (the hook that holds the funnel in place on a decanter or claret jug) is in the form of a shell and the rim features a gadroon border. There are three outer ribs on the body of the funnel and patterned piercings inside the bowl. The muslin holder is not hallmarked and is a good tight fit. There are a few dents and dings the body and the tip of the funnel has been bent at some point, but nothing to detract from the quality of the piece. Dimensions: Weight: 148g. Height: 15cm Diameter of rim: 8.5cm. Complimentary gift wrapping is available on request. Post and packaging are free within the UK. Overseas buyers please e-mail for postage costs and please note: Import duties, taxes, and charges are not included in the item price or shipping cost. These charges are the buyer's responsibility. Please check with your country's customs office to determine what these additional costs will be prior to buying.
