Description

Very good quality and decorative pair of adjustable Victorian brass wall lights with frosted glass shades. These wall lights were originally gas lamps, but are now wired for electricity and will take a standard bulb. They are also hinged so you can adjust them to sit exactly as you would like, as shown in the photos at various angles. They are an impressive size pair of wall lights and would work for many different uses, such as bedside lighting, over a sideboard or flanking a console table perhaps. Very easy to hang on the wall and the cable runs through the brass work, so it is almost completely hidden once installed. They have been re wired and are ready to use, Priced as a pair and also include FREE delivery within mainland UK within the ticket price. Measuring: 22 inches or 56 cm high 22 inches or 56 cm depth from the wall
