Description

About 100 years old, this inlaid three drawer mahogany chest of drawers could hardly be in better condition. It is boasting excellent colour and finish, the inlays are in place, crisp and clean and the original brass ring pull handles are fully operational. It is a really neat size at just under a metre in width and looks superb with the inlays, splay bracket feet and clean French polish finish. As can be seen in one of the pictures, the drawer fronts are substantial, almost an inch thickness of solid mahogany, the drawer sides are in oak and the insides overall are really clean. Clearly this has been a well looked after chest and will look great in almost any location. Having been supplied by a company called Brookfield Successors who were house furnishers in Stafford it has not gone far since its original purchase it would seem. We have another inlaid chest for sale, again of superb quality and if required a single wardrobe with a matching inlay to the chest described here, both on our web.
