Description

A fine and large solid oak double gateleg table over 300 years old and in generally good original condition with a little restoration over the years. With turned baluster legs and stretchers throughout this table is very versatile and can still serve six people with one leaf still down. The top is basically rectangular and as much more user friendly with chairs not hitting the legs as much as the oval tops. From the side you can see a beautifully shaped apron which is simple in design yet very appealing. A superb piece with a good patina and ready to use. Width closed - 65cm = 25 1/2 inches
