Description

A generously proportioned Victorian library armchair, circa 1890, with shaped back, scroll arms and sprung seat, raised on ring turned mahogany supports with original brass and porcelain castors. This is a supremely comfortable armchair in good condition, it is currently in its calico covering and just needs new top covers. I can arrange covering with my upholsterer and supply fabric if required - please get in touch for further details. 85cm high, 75cm wide at the front, the seat measures 69cm deep and is 37cm high, total depth is approximately 98cm.
