Description

Victorian inlaid Satinwood desk This Victorian inlaid Satinwood desk was made circa 1880. Made in a prestigious workshop, probably Edwards & Roberts, who were known to produce the best quality items, specialising in fine inlay work. The cabinetmaker would have taken time selecting the finest Satinwood before starting this wonderful writing desk. It has the original burgundy inset writing surface with the lidded stationary boxes to each side. The lids lift but also the interior slides forward. There are brass galleries around the top of the boxes and the joining shelf. Fitted a bow fronted box drawer to each side of the central concave drawer above the knee hole. All the drawers are profusely inlaid sprays of foliage and have the original cast brass swing handles. The square tapering legs with castors under. To the top of the leg is an inlaid panel inlaid with an urn. Imagine owning this outstanding Victorian Satinwood desk, it is a very rare opportunity to own a desk that is rare, especially to this quality grade. It will be the envy of your family and friends. 114cms wide 45ins 64cms deep 25ins 94cms high 37ins 63cms floor to underside of knee hole 24 3/4ins All dimensio...
