Description

A genuine Art Deco necklace dating from the 1920s, which we can say with certainty because the piece is made of platinon - a rare and non-tarnishing metal alloy which was invented and used in that decade as a platinum substitute. The faceted glass stones are incredibly bright and clear as crystal and make for a really eyecatching piece. The photos don't do it justice! The necklace is in excellent antique condition, with no chips or cracks. Length: Approximately 16 inches (40cm), with a further 7cm drop for the pendant section. Weight: 7.2g. FREE INTERNATIONAL SHIPPING! Apologies but we cannot ship to Germany, any orders from Germany will be cancelled and refunded.
