Description

A handsome antique Edwardian mahogany envelope games/card table dating from circa 1905. This table rotates and has four drop leaves which fold out to reveal a baize topped surface for playing cards with recesses for holding counters. It has a drawer to the front with brass knob handles with drawer space for holding cards. It stands on attractive tapered legs united by an under shelf with original brass and ceramic casters. Construction/Wood: Mahogany Condition Report: Fairly solid and sturdy with original patina to the mahogany. The green baize surface appears fairly new, with a few marks. Some old splits to the playing surface. An old mend to one of the stretchers.
