Description

This is an antique stretcher table. An English, mahogany side table with bobbin turned legs, dating to the early Victorian period, circa 1850. Gothic revival taste with evocative bobbin turned decoration. Displays a desirable aged patina and in very good order. Select stocks resplendent in caramel hues and fine grain interest. Good consistent colour throughout to the wax polish finish. Front apron frieze accentuated with drop pendant finials to each corner. Raised upon pairs of superb, bobbin turned legs with baluster mounts. Distinctive trestle feet with unusual bobbin turned feet and circular motif. Fascinating inverted bobbin turning to the uniting stretcher rail. This is a highly decorative antique stretcher table, with superb turned detail and gothic overtones. Solid joints and construction, delivered waxed, polished and ready for the home.
