Description

A good large silver plated on copper soup tureen. Bearing no makers mark, this piece probably dates to the mid 19th Century. In a Neo-Classical style with stylised scroll handles and a fluted shape. The silver plated soup ladle is a slightly later addition. The condition is good overall with a tight fitting lid and a very clean interior. There is, however, some copper bleed to the raised edges and handles and a couple of small patches to the body. Weight approx 2.5kg Total Span approx 37cm Height to top of handle approx 25cm Depth approx 19.5cm Length of ladle approx 29cm
