Description

Late C18th Dutch neo-classical design satinwood demi-lune commode. Smart mahogany or 'purple-wood' cross-banded satinwood elliptical commode of practical scale and proportions. Fitted 2 frieze drawers opening on 'runners' to a right-angle, with bow-fronted twin cupboard doors below revealing a single shelved interior. The doors each inlaid to the centre with large oval fan or sun-flower paterae of sophisticated design, retaining original green-stained surround and double 'barber's-pole' stringing. Cross-banded and stepped upright stiles, the whole with broad mahogany or 'purple-wood' cross-banding and ebony stringing. Raised on tapering shaped 'spade' feet with gilt-brass terminals. The oak-lined drawers with brass 'axe-head' pull handles, the verso with original oak back-board. In excellent condition with a rich colour and patina. No splits to doors or top. A decorative and elegantly proportioned side cabinet of practical scale with useful storage, would make an ideal drinks cabinet. H 33" W 32" D 16" Holland c.1790
