Description

Early 19th century Georgian sampler in original mahogany frame with original glass. This is a pleasing early 19th century sampler of good design but it is slightly faded in colour. The house in the middle of the sampler is especially well done. There is information about the sampler on labels stuck to the back of the frame. Made by HELEN WARDROP in 1819. Apart from the fading this is in good order. SIZE; 18" wide by 22" high CIRCA; 1820
