Description

This is a very nicely detailed watercolour painting of a stained glass window plan. I love the quality of the work and the small detail that the picture has been mounted on back board so you can still see the rough edges gives the piece a huge decorative boost. The style of the painting is beautiful with the clear dissections to show how the window will be put together. These are rare to come across and are a wonderful historical insight into an architectural element. Currently in a simple pine frame. We can re frame this should you prefer.
