Description

19th century demi-lune wrought iron & marble topped console table of good scale. This attractive console has white aged marble top resting on a wrought iron painted base. The base features ornate scroll decoration between round uprights. This useful piece of furniture would be the focal point of any entranceway, hall, sunroom/orangery, an excellent country house piece. The marble has a few blemishes to the top edge and the paint is slightly distressed but with a country house look.
