Description

This early 1900s inlaid chair is in very tidy condition with a freshly reupholstered seat. There is string inlay on the arms, legs etc and a most pleasing fan inlay in the back rail. It has a good stretcher base for support and has a good supportive shape to the back as can be seen in the pictures. It can be a bedroom chair or we feel it could make a most useable desk chair owing to the good shape of the rails. It can be a pleasing addition to any room that might occasionally need additional seating, being good looking and useable.
