Description

C19th Anglo-Indian carved padauk pedestal sideboard. Finely and profusely carved Anglo-Indian padauk sideboard raised on twin pedestals. The elaborate carved and pierced upstand back with a central anthemion or honeysuckle classical motif with scrolls and fruit, taking its inspiration from English furniture designs of the Regency period. The carved inverted break-front top fitted with 3 frieze drawers with carved floral and leaf style decoration, the pedestals with gadrooned carved 'sunburst' panel doors enclosing interiors each fitted with single adjustable shelf. The front edge carved with ovolo or 'egg-and-dart' design. Each pedestal raised on carved tapering fluted feet. Superb grade of figured padauk timber which has achieved a rich colour and patina. In excellent original condition with only minor losses to carving, and marks commensurate with age, use and purpose. A stylish and highly decorative sideboard or server of practical scale and proportions. NB * This being one of two examples which we have in stock of near identical form and scale. H 36" H (to top of back) 48" W 70" D 24". Western India, probably Bombay c. 1840
