Description

A good 19th century gilt-framed Oil Painting on canvas by Joseph THORS. RA (1843-1907) entitled "The Path Between the Villages". The painting depicts a country lane disappearing into the middle-distance with two ponies, one being ridden, walking away from a nearby thatched house towards a house in the middle distance, possibly the next village hence the title. A dead tree (almost a trade mark of Joseph Thors) stands proud to the right of the painting. Signed bottom centre by the artist. Dated: c.1860-70 Condition: Frame and canvas in excellent condition. Some might say it is quite a dark painting and could benefit from a clean, however the colours are bright and there is no visible cracking. Dimensions: (Visible canvas) h: 22ins x 19ins (56 x 48cm) Frame: 29ins x 25ins (74 x 63.5cm) Joseph THORS (fl: 1863-1900) - A well known landscape painter who lived in London but also worked in the midlands where he was regarded as a member of the Birmingham School. His landscapes are usually rustic scenes with cottages, figures and animals, and often feature a dead tree trunk, painted in a style which derives ultimately from the Norwich school. He exhibited extensively in Bir...
