Description

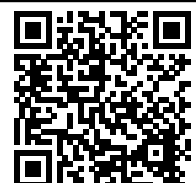

This is a stunning quality antique Victorian dressing table, constructed from burr walnut, with a twin pedestal design and a central hinged mirror, circa 1860, in excellent original condition. The Victorian dressing table, retains the original central rectangular mirror, encased in a moulded frame, secured by the original brass ball hinges screws. The angle of the mirror can be adjusted. The mirror is supported by a pair of finely carved pierced fretwork arm supports above a central well, flanked by two pedestal chests. The central well features a blind working drawer below. The Victorian dressing table, stands on two pedestals incorporating five graduated drawers each; decorated with stunning burr walnut detail, retaining the original turned knobs. The drawer linings are constructed of solid mahogany with hand dove-tailed construction and quarter beading (sign of quality). The drawers in each pedestal retain their original working locks (with key). The Victorian dressing table rests on the original moulded plinths and retains the original iron and mug castors. The Victorian dressing table retains the original backboards to the base and mirror. The mirror and car...
