Description

This Oak kneehole desk is just about 100 years old but by its impressive looks appears just a youngster. It is in lovely condition with a replaced tooled leather to the top in black, so no problems with colour schemes. The sides are faced with raised panels and so is the rear, this one does not have to go against a wall. A full complement of handles adorn the drawers and there is a locking drawer which also locks the drawers on the pedestals. It is a really good size to use for work and has the slides on the pedestals to give even extra space if you may need it. If you are a bit taller the kneehole size is a bonus at 62cms wide and 62 high. This desk comes to pieces to move and as such is easy to go upstairs if you wanted it to. Give us a call to discuss if you wish, it's a lovely item, so useable and sensibly priced too. We don't think you will find a better example for the money, it's in superb condition..
