Description

Kidney shaped marquetry writing table circa 1875. A superb example of fine Victorian furniture in original condition, with no losses or additions. The tooled inset leather writing surface within a finely detailed marquetry surround depicting cornucopia, and a basket issuing fruit and flowers, over a shaped frieze fitted with a drawer, the table stands on elegant Cabriole leg supports with the original mounts giving the whole piece a very light and delicate look. This piece would make a superb addition to a collection, or simply to add to the decor of the finest of homes For further decorative and marquetry inlaid furniture, please visit our stock page
