Description

Very unusual small STRIKING Mahogany BRACKET CLOCK Signed W.Clark, London. C.1810 – 1820 The unusual dome top edged in ebony, having a design (I can only guess at) of a key shape, issuing foliate fronds, over further very fine inlaid ebony design. The stepped base having sharply executed, reeded band supported by barrel feet. The sides bordered with ebony lines, cornered with brass clover leaf & ebony dots. Over a conforming reeded band & drum feet. The back door with brass sound fret. The painted iron dial with Roman numerals & pierced blued hands. The 8 day twin fuse striking movement, having five knopped pillars and very thick plates. The back cock matching the engraved border and supporting brackets. The London pendulum with matching engraving to the bob. This clock has a restrained quality to it, not unlike a Vulliamy. Dimensions H 40cm W 24cm D 16 cm Weight 7kilos £3250.00
