Description

A superb and very handsome pair of the unusual and sought-after "Lynx" binoculars by Lawrence and Mayo, dating to c.1910. These English pocket sized Field glasses or binoculars are made from brass having been meticulously professionally re-polished to gleam. They come with the integral compass, signed by the maker's Lawrence & Mayo (of London) and "The Lynx". Each lens has a sunshade that pulls out in bright and sunny conditions. A beautiful pair in superb condition and measuring 4 3/8" wide x 1 3/4" deep; expanding from 3" to 4 1/4" when fully opened and sun shields in operation.
