Description

This small oak cabinet, made in the 1920s, was originally used at Wolfe & Sons Pharmacy for storing apothecary and perfumery items: it boasts two sets of double doors (one lockable, with key included) and a lift-up lid. Hand-painted gold lettering lists the ingredients that would have been stored inside, giving it plenty of vintage charm. It would be an attractive freestanding or countertop shop cabinet for a shop or an appealingly quirky storage solution in any home.
