Description

A Georgian era silhouette of a fine gentleman c1820. Framed in an antique brass frame, with gadrooned edge and beading. It has a wooden back and hanging ring. The wooden back is inscribed John Grieve London - it is not clear if this is the subject or the maker. The inner wooden back was once sealed with red sealing wax in two places and it is still secure even with the seals chipped away. The silhouette itself is very fine, showing a richly dressed gentleman, or officer, with a bedribboned wig. The silhouette is in very good condition. The back and frame are consistent for the age.
