Description

A rectangular topped table with boxwood line inlay, deep cross banded edge and canted corners. Single frieze drawer. The base has a concave flat stretcher. Lovely colour and patina with flame grain veneers. An interesting table as it was made in this low size and not cutdown. Free standing piece so can be used centrally or in either dimension against a wall or sofa. It has elements of regency styling, however dates from around 100 years post that period, c1920
