Description

Fabulous carved oak court cupboard or joined press dated 1701. The beautiful and extensive carving with its distinctive flat surface and curving forms is typically found on furniture produced around Bowland in in North Lancashire from the middle of the 17th to the very early 18th century. Built in two sections with a short two door cupboard top on the much larger two door cupboard base fitted with a single shelf inside and with two good sized drawers in the waist. Carved with the initials RSA and dated 1701 on the top, with large turned droppers and exceptional carving, note the scores of heart motifs hidden in the pattern. Panelled sides with simple moulded rails. Oak shelf back and floor boards. Previous (probably late 19th.c) restorations, most obviously to the drawers which have later linings and runners, also with later locks handles and hinges. Excellent colour and condition, cleaned and waxed in our workshops. Keys supplied. Details Dimensions: Width 55" Height 69" Depth 21½" Year: c.1701
