Description

A very stylish and distinctive Art Deco nest of walnut tables dating to the 1930s. One large table with two further tables in tiered sizes that snugly fit underneath each other. Each table is sturdy in its construct and will work perfectly for modern day use. The fins that sit either side of the main larger table act as storage of magazines whilst also offering the geometric angular design Art deco admirers will appreciate. Even the base of the tables are stepped, as they say it's all in the detail! The overall tone is a lovely warm colouring with the most exquisite walnut veneers. A rare Classic set to enhance your home interior. The whole set has been fully & professionally restored and in good vintage condition. Images taken in natural daylight.
