Description

Don VAUGHAN (1916-2005) - Framed oil on canvas entitled "The River Thames at Lechlade". A well painted river landscape, depicting the River Thames on a calm sunny day meandering through fields with trees lining the river bank. In the foreground a small group of children monitored by their governess are playing on the far riverbank. Beyond them in the field to the right of the painting a horse and hay-cart stand still whilst being loaded with hay stooks by the attendant farm workers. Signed to the bottom right hand corner. Dimensions: 40 x 28 inches (including frame). (101.5 x 71cm) Dated c.1950-55 Framed in a modern gold painted wooden frame with ornate leaves and scrolls decoration. The Artist - Don Vaughan (born 1916, died 2005): A British artist who grew up in West London (Chiswick). His works were mostly in watercolours in the early days, then guache and eventually oils. After graduating from the Chiswick Polytechnic School of Art, he worked as a furniture designer for one of Londons top furniture companies. He left to join a commercial art studio, then joined the RAF in 1939 and served in both Egypt and South Africa during the 2nd World War. He even managed to...
