Description

A traditional Welsh open base, or potboard, dresser with a fine surface in beautifully crisp condition for a piece that was made a couple of centuries ago. The cornice is of unusual, broad profile and finely moulded. The graduated shelves have broad pine back boards and an abundance of hooks for hanging. The base has a pair of long drawers with their original knobs above a simply, but strikingly, shaped frieze. The plain square section legs are joined by the original pine potboard. Excellent colour and patina. Cardiganshire circa 1800-20.
