Description

A superb oak lowboy dating from the late 18th century. The top has a moulded edge and a beautifully cross banded border. It stands on cabriole legs terminating in pad feet with an arrangement of three drawers around a central shaped frieze. Each drawer has a small brass plate handle. It is in good original condition with a beautiful rich patina. There are some signs of age and use, a few marks and stains on the top but the table is strong and sturdy and the drawers open well. There have been a couple of repairs to small chips on the feet and a couple of repairs and small losses to the cross banding but nothing detrimental. There are signs of historic worm in the drawers which has all been treated as a precaution and hasn't affected the table structurally or aesthetically. The best description comes from the photos so please look at them all carefully and if you have any questions just ask. Nationwide delivery available through our network of reliable couriers.
