Description

A very rare solid sterling silver compass. It is hallmarked for London 1880 with the makers mark being that of Sampson Mordan Co. It has been superbly designed and is in ok condition being free from dings splits holes and repairs - the odd faint mark. The compass works perfectly. The hinge and loop are possibly gold, the loop needs work as it can be detached if pulled hard enough and I think the case should spring open when the button is pushed but it does not. It measures approx. 1.25 inches (3cms) across and weighs 26 grams. A rare piece.
