Description

A large Dutch antique pine bomb base linen press, in wonderful condition. The term bomb base is used because it is deeper at the bottom of the base than the top. Dating from the turn of the century, in excellent condition for its age. Currently in bare wood having recently been stripped. Can be purchased as it is for £1100, or waxed for £1297. In our opinion this would look wonderful painted - please contact us for a quote for this service. Behind the solid doors there are two shelves on the right, a partition and then one shelf on the left. As the small drawer on the left is purely for decorative purposes, the space extends down into the drawer. The small drawer on the right is a fully working drawer. There are also three wooden pegs at the top on the left for hanging items. There are two further full width drawers. All drawers are running smoothly. The top separates from the base for delivery. Height 80", width 59.5", depth 24.5" internal depth 17.5"

Internal Ref: V1200H
