Description

Until fairly recently this oak & pine studio easel was being used by its owner, a professional artist who trained at the Slade School of Fine Art in the 1950s - this decorative piece is being offered in its original unrestored state. The mechanism is working, however, it would benefit from some lubrication and general restoration. The measurement given for its height was taken at its lowest position - I will post the measurement for its maximum extension asap. This easel could support a stretcher 136 cm high.
