Description

An exceptional C19th large glazed terracotta garden urn / wine cistern; of unusually large scale by Lipscombe & Co. The oval shaped bowl having a bold everted foliate moulded edge above the lobed body with a stiff leaf rim collar below; raised on a fluted socle, descending to the octagonal plinth base with incised decoration. A rare and impressive piece of saltglazed stoneware giving major gravitas. Would be equally impressive in a garden or interior as a jardiniere or wine cooler. The rim of the bowl and the plinth stamped " LIPSCOMBE & CO PATENT GLAZED TERRA COTTA POTTERIES CHESTERFIELD" English circa 1860 Very good condition Dimensions (ins) 38 wide x 28.5 deep x 26 high There were numerous potteries within the vicinity of Chesterfield, the majority founded in the second half 19th century and closing by the first and second World Wars. Geographically the area was ideal, with seams of clay deposits running between seams of clay and salt transported over the Pennines from Cheshire to Chesterfield, led to the production of salt glazed pottery for domestic use. The improvements in infrastructure encouraged the industrialization and growth of numerous manufacturing pott...
