Description

This is a really cute and rare find, a 1930's Art Deco compact with the most delightful enamel decoration, featuring a red geometric design on a chrome casing. The interior is an engineers delight with a sliding latch on the side of the compact to secure the powder in place. Upon opening the lid reveals the mechanics that operates and reveals a powder dispenser. The back of the compact is same as the front, so both sides are decorated. The condition is very good and above average with only minor signs of ageing, a true delight for any Deco fan or collectors of compacts. Patent number and makers name are impressed on the sides of the compact Beaute limited, Paris, France.
