Description

~ French - Circa 1840 ~ ~~ Excellent condition, fully overhauled ~~ A fine and early Louis XV style porcelain antique French clock mounted with exquisite ormolu (mercury fire gilded bronze doré). It is by the famous Parisian maker Raingo Frères. The porcelain has a Bleu Celeste ground with fine and delicately painted flowers and an exotic bird to the front panel. The ormolu is beautifully cast with fruiting vines, acanthus and dolphin feet. The dial is formed as part of the case with a delicate circle of flowers and the Raingo Frères signature. It is complete with it's original fine repoussé and pieced brass hands. The rear door is glazed to allow the movement to be seen. The French movement is by Raingo Frères and is of high quality with a silk suspension. It is in excellent clean and running condition having been fully overhauled by our clockmaker. Pendulum is original. It runs for 8 days and strikes the hours and halves on a bell. We have a video of the clock running and striking, please ask and we will send you a link or try pasting this into your browser:
